

George Ojanuga
Chief Financial Officer

George brings to Edward Andrews Homes more than 20 years of experience in banking, finance and real estate. He has been an executive finance leader in the real estate industry for the past ten years after a decade-long successful career as a corporate lender in the banking industry.

Prior to joining the Edward Andrews team, George served as President/Chief Financial Officer of Urban Trends Real Estate, Inc., a firm dedicated to bringing affordable housing, mortgage best practices and real estate knowledge to emerging markets primarily in Africa. Urban Trends Real Estate was an international extension of George's work as Managing Director/CEO of SwiftEagle Capital, LLC, a firm he founded to provide financial advisory and capital raising services to various Atlanta-based residential and commercial builders and real estate investment firms.

George's additional positions include: CFO of PEC Development Group, one of the largest regional residential land developers in the Southeast, Vice President of Finance and Treasurer of McCar Homes, Inc., one of the largest private homebuilders in the U.S., and Director/SVP of Fleet National Bank (now Bank of America), where he managed multi-million dollar corporate loan portfolios in its asset-based lending, middle market, and structured real estate groups.

George earned his Bachelor of Science in Biology from Rivers State University of Science and Technology in Port-Harcourt, Nigeria, and an MBA from the University of Maine-Orono. George is also a graduate of the Bank of Boston's prestigious credit analyst program.
